We are seeking interns to help social enterprises (non-profit & for-profit) increase their sustainability, scale-up and advance towards success.

1. Co-author a monthly column for Green Fire Times on financing for sustainability
2. Develop marketing materials and business development relationship for a medical supplies start-up company, EMvolution.

Successful interns are self-starters who fearlessly delve into new terrain. Candidates should be good thinkers and organized. Strong written and verbal skills required. Internships are de-centralized and virtual (i.e. outside an office), can be project based/part-time. These real world practical learning opportunities help organizations improve. Strong interns may be offered future paid consulting gigs.
